

Helpful Hints for Happy Campers

We are so excited that you have decided to attend Haunted History, a Paranormal Investigation, adult camp-in at the Museum of World Treasures. Here is some information to help make your camp-in experience memorable and fun.

1. Find the right parking space

From April through October, parking alongside the plaza in front of our building is prohibited from 5am-12pm on Saturdays for the Farm and Art Market. The Museum has no control over this and if you park in one of these spaces during these times your car will probably be towed.

All other Old Town parking is free. A parking garage is located north of the Museum behind the Hotel at Old Town. If you are arriving on a Friday or Saturday night, leave plenty of time for parking as things get pretty crowded.

2. Bring the appropriate gear

Campers are responsible for bringing their own sleeping gear and toiletries. Please keep in mind that there is a limited amount of space. You will only be here for 1 night so you shouldn't need to bring along too much.

3. Arrival and Departure

When you arrive, please check in with the front desk staff. They will direct you where to go.

Please leave the Museum by the time designated for the end of the camp-in. Museum staff need plenty of time to reset the Museum before it opens to the public.

4. Safety first!

At least 2 staff members will be on duty during the entirety of your stay. As an added security measure, we usually lock the doors and turn on the alarm around 9pm (exact time may vary). If you need to go outside after then, you will need to speak to staff about turning off the alarm before you exit the building or the alarm may sound.

We ask that guests do not wander throughout the Museum at night except to visit the restroom. Some areas get very dark and some cases have sharp edges.

5. Cleanliness and Respect for Artifacts

As a nonprofit historical institution, we view our Museum's exhibits and, most importantly, our artifacts as belonging to the community as a whole and to future generations. Therefore, we ask that you respect Museum property at all times. This includes not using flash photography.

If you or your group incurs major damages to carpet or any other part of the Museum, you may be liable to incur cleaning or repair charges.

Finally, all individuals are requested to dispose of all trash and replace objects that have been moved before leaving.

Other notes:

-While we do our best to minimize excess light and sound in the sleeping area, please note that other businesses around the Museum sometimes use lights and music late into the night. Consider bringing ear plugs and an eye cover.

-While we do our best to make our public WiFi accessible during the event, some areas of the Museum may be unable to access the network.
